Cosmetology and Esthetics

Cosmetology includes hairdressing, dyeing, haircutting, manicures, pedicures, waxing, facials, applying cosmetics, mud packs and wraps. Cosmeticians are frequently the first to recommend medical treatments to their clients for stubborn conditions. This bond of trust is important. In fact, many cosmeticians become respected confidants of their clients who show their loyalty with regular visits that will make you financially independent. The need for your services is ongoing. Hair and nails keep growing.

Esthetics is the non-medical care of the skin, the biggest organ in the body. It requires constant attention to keep it looking young and beautiful. Since health is the foundation of vibrant skin our esthetician program includes anatomy, physiology, chemistry, and theory relative to esthetics. You'd be the first to detect medical conditions that require the attention of a dermatologist. The work involves touching and physical contact with your clients and requires a professional who truly cares. Our new esthetician is similar to our cosmetology program but is shorter because it focuses only on spa treatments, including waxing, facials, wraps, makeup, and other skin-care services. We also include classes on managing a spa and employment development.

Why Cosmetology?

Most of us want to look our best. As a skilled professional, you can provide this vital service to your clients as you launch a lucrative career. Demand is growing with increases in population. As more women work, they have the means to pamper themselves in the hands of skilled cosmetologists. Currently, some men are choosing salons for their hair care needs. Many American men now recognize the benefits of salons, stylists, and estheticians for their appearance and wellbeing.

The beauty business offers a greater range of opportunities. Becoming a cosmetologist opens the door to working in a salon, spa, hotel, hospital, cruise ship, department store, owning your own salon, teaching or becoming a make-up artist for film and television. The list is endless.

According to the Labor Census Report of the National Accrediting Commission of Cosmetology Arts and Sciences, entry level cosmetologist earns about $30,000.00. With experience you can make $40,000.00- $85,000.00. It gets even better. If you own your own salon the earning potential shoots past $100,000.00.

Best of all, you'll be getting paid for work that is fun. Once you've shown your clients that you've brought out their best, they'll rely on you for life.
